

Helping Mississippians live happier, healthier lives!

ORANGES

The United States is third in the world for growing citrus fruit. Many orange varieties are grown in Mississippi; they can be sweet or sour and full of seeds or have no seeds. Mandarin and navel oranges are the most popular varieties. Oranges can be a simple snack or used in various dishes. The peel of an orange can be used in baked products, such as muffins and breads, or diced up and added to a stir fry for extra flavor.

BENEFIT

- ▶ A good source of vitamin C, helping our bodies fight illness and absorb iron.
- ▶ A good source of fiber, which helps digestion.
- ▶ A good source of folate that helps us grow.
- ▶ A good source of potassium and vitamin A.

SELECT

- ▶ Citrus fruit loves Mississippi weather! During the warm weather, oranges will sometimes turn green if too ripe. If picking from a tree, make sure they are not green, but have a yellow-orange color.
- ▶ The orange should feel heavy for its size and the peel should be firm. If shopping for snack cups or canned oranges, look for items packaged in 100 percent juice.

WHEN CHOOSING PACKAGED, LOOK FOR 100% JUICE.

- ▶ Peel, slice, or quarter oranges to enjoy as a snack!
- ▶ They are great additions to salads and can be made into salsas and baked in recipes. They are especially yummy in water!

STORE

Uncut oranges can be left on the counter for 7 days or until ripe. After cutting, cover any extra pieces and place in the refrigerator. They can be stored whole in the refrigerator for at least 3 weeks.
